Comments:	It is great that visitors come here and want to tour our city. It's awful when you get stuck behind a tour train going 10 mph from one end of White St to another. Have the tours honor the speed limits at least on the main streets.

Comments:	I sincerely hope we will keep the ducks off the street altogether. I rode on one when HTA was running them; I've driven behind and in front of them; I've watched pedestrians and bicycles cross in front of them. They are ugly, intrusive, unwieldy, and a serious accident waiting to happen. As far as trolleys and trains, I feel the franchises should be given out equitably. All equally qualified and compliant companies should be allowed the same number of vehicles and stops.

Comments:	The two (2) main concerns are: the "LOUD" spiels of the tour guides, which shatter and intrude upon our peace and quiet, in our increasingly costly neighborhoods. And the slow, pokey, pause and go passage of the tour vehicles, which block thoroughfares and impede progress. Thus far, these issues remain unaddressed and without remedy. The drivers of the tour vehicles seem to have little concern for anyone other than themselves and their passengers, when it comes to stopping for photo opportunities and to spout their nonsense.

Comments:	I know the sightseeing vehicles are important for keeping cars off the streets, but I think a few things could be done to lessen the impact on those of us who live here: 1) Require earphones (I've lived on a street where they pass and it's terrible); 2) Require a minimum number of passengers, thus reducing the number of vehicles. Seeing them on the street with less than 10 people is crazy; and 3) PLEASE don't license the Ducks -- they are way too big for our streets and town, and they are an accident waiting to happen. They really cheapen the city. Thanks for letting us respond.

Comments:	the operation of franchises is a restriction of free trade, which reduces the choice of the consumer, unfairly increases the cost of the service, and is against the principle of free trade in a democratic capitalist society.

Comments:	I have a number of comments: 1) The trolleys & conch train should have a minimum number of passengers before they can start a tour. Snorkel & dive boat operators do this and there's no reason the trolleys & conch train can't as well. The busy Old Town streets should not be clogged by a tour vehicle doing 7 mph with only 2 or 4 people aboard. 2) The trolleys & conch train should be restricted to side streets during rush hours (i.e. 7-9am & 4-6pm) and not be allowed to use the main commuter routes like Eaton & Truman that people use to get to & from work. 3) If they are allowed to use the main thoroughfares during rush hours, they should have to turn off after 3-4 blocks so as not to block people trying to get to & from work. 4) For narrations, the trolleys and conch train should use individual headsets for each passenger instead of loudspeakers that blast into the neighborhood. 5) The narrations given by the tour operators should be approved by the city so drivers and narrators don't just make stuff up about the city. Every tour I have ever taken has had blatantly untrue statements given out as facts.

Comments:	1) A fair playing field for all applicants 2) Headsets-No more loudspeakers 3) Maintain speed at all times on main roads (Roosevelt Blvds., White St, Eaton St, Duval St, Whitehead St, Atlantic Blvd.) 4) Require ACCURACY in operator's narrative- much less embellishment and BS) 5) Strictly enforced 15 mph minimum speed-Loss of the unit's license for 10 days for first infraction
