partio	ne individual. I am especially concerned with the Clerk's reliance on an outside consultant of determining what and when records are to be disposed - while not listening to the input of cular departments which require the information to be held for much greater periods of time clanning and building. I am also concerned with the perceived dependency of the Clerk on the cultant to be kept abreast of changes in State laws and emerging trends which may affect the ice of local government management.
