Wednesday, April 29

9:00 – 10:00 am | Artists Process | Local Perspectives, Local Impact

Presentation and Panel discussion with Palm Beach County Artists who have a process-based art practice, often research-driven, and site-responsive. Rooted in local history, ecology, and community, their projects treat public space not as a backdrop, but as the medium itself—inviting reflection, dialogue, and shared civic experience. This panel offers an opportunity to explore how contemporary art can activate public space, illuminate overlooked narratives, and strengthen connections between people and place.

10:00 – 11:00 am | Artist from Studio to the Public Realm | Local Perspectives, Local Impact

Join Palm Beach County artists for a presentation and conversation about balancing studio practice with work in public spaces. How does art shift from the privacy of the studio to the shared experience of public space? Through individual presentations and panel dialogue, the artists will discuss process, collaboration, and the challenges of moving between solitary creation and community engagement—revealing how each realm informs and transforms the other.

Grygutis earned a BFA and MFA from the University of Arizona where she was awarded "Alumnus of the Year" in 2024. Barbara Grygutis maintains art, design and fabrication practices in Tucson, Arizona.

BLESSING HANCOCK

Blessing Hancock is an internationally recognized public artist known for creating monumental, site-specific sculptures that illuminate and transform public spaces. Trained in sculpture and landscape architecture, she founded her studio in 2008 and has since completed more than 60 large-scale installations around the world. Her work blends organic forms with technology, using materials such as steel, acrylic, and programmable lighting to create immersive visual experiences. Community engagement is central to her process, with each artwork reflecting the culture and identity of the place it inhabits. Hancock's award-winning work has been featured in publications including Bloomberg, Hospitality Design, and The New York Times.

MAGS HARRIES and LAJOS HÉDER

Boston-based artists known for collaborative public artworks that weave sculpture, landscape, and community narratives, Harries, a Welsh-born sculptor, brings a background in environmental art and storytelling through form. Now deceased, Héder, was originally from Hungary, and contributed expertise in design, architecture, and systems thinking. Together they created site-responsive projects that transform public spaces into places of reflection, play, and civic engagement, integrating art with ecology, infrastructure, and everyday life. Their works appear in parks, campuses, and urban settings internationally.

VERONICA HATCH

Veronica Hatch leads Public Art Boca for the City of Boca Raton, building the city's public art program established in 2023 and advancing a vision that connects public art, cultural programming, and community storytelling with place. Working with artists and community partners, the program brings contemporary art into public spaces while supporting artists and projects that respond to Boca Raton's landscape, history, and evolving shared memory. Hatch previously served as Director of Community and Outreach Programs at the Norton Museum of Art. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in Studio Art and is pursuing a Master of Urban and Regional Planning at Florida Atlantic University.

JILL HOTCHKISS

Jill Hotchkiss (b. Hollywood, Florida) holds an MFA from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, NY and a BFA from the University of Florida. Her work is held in major public and private collections globally and has been featured in Architectural Digest, Forbes, and Art Basel Magazine. She is a 2026 Artist Innovation Fellow with the Cultural Council for Palm Beach County. Hotchkiss has completed residencies at the School of Visual Arts (NY) and Oolite Arts (Miami), and was commissioned by the City of West Palm Beach for an 80-foot public mural Botanical Preserve in South Olive Park. She lives and works in Boca Raton, Florida

GILLIAN KENNEDY WRIGHT

Gillian Kennedy Wright is a multi-disciplinary artist based in Lake Park, Florida. Whose work explores abstract landscape and portraiture themes using raw edge fabric collage quilting. She draws inspiration from Florida's natural surroundings and everyday people she meets. Gillian creates bold bright pieces made from some upscaled and natural dyed materials that evoke comfortable and thoughtful moments in time. She received her art degree from Edna Manley College of the Visual Arts, Kingston, Jamaica. She was one of the Cultural Council for Palm Beach County Innovation Fellow's for 2024/2025 and created the "Heart of West Palm Beach" Community public art quilt.

YUSIMY LARA

Yusimy Lara is a Miami based visual artist born in Havana, Cuba. Deeply inspired by nature, Lara' creations are made from a variety of materials from bronze to sawdust and usually include an element of danger. Her current artistic practice explores subjects related to human origins, and the interactions between living things and built environments. Her work has been exhibited in different venues of the Miami area, including Mindy Solomon Gallery, Kampong Botanical Garden, Fredric Snitzer Gallery and the Deering Estate. Her sculptures are part of several art collections, and she is currently coordinating projects for the Art in Public Places of the Department of Cultural Affairs, Miami Dade County. Lara holds a B.F.A., New World School of the Arts.

BEN LEONE

Ben Leone is a West Palm Beach artist whose work explores the evolving relationship between the built environment and the natural world. Drawing on construction materials and architectural processes, he transforms remnants of development into sculptural forms that question permanence, progress, and ecological balance. His projects, including Orchid City in West Palm Beach and The Orchid (And The I-Beam) at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, examine tension between human intervention and organic systems. Leone's practice merges traditional fabrication with contemporary technology, revealing how structures shape our experience of landscape. Themes of urbanization, climate change, and material culture inform his work, while his open-ended approach invites viewers to consider how built and natural systems continually shape one another.

AMANDA SANFILIPPO LONG

Amanda Sanfilippo Long holds an MA in Contemporary Art History, Sotheby's Institute of Art, London UK, and a BA Art History, University of Vermont, Burlington, VT. Amanda's passion for working with artists, architects and designers to create new site-specific monumental public art commissions and fostering opportunities for artists to expand their practice is central to her curatorial approach. Her background encompasses curating, commissioning, and acquisitions for institutions as well as effective fundraising and strategic planning for public art and contemporary art not-for-profit and independent organizations. Since 2016, Amanda has been appointed the Curator & Artist Manager for the Art in Public Places Program of Miami-Dade County, Department of Cultural Affairs, the Director of South Florida Cultural Consortium, and the Senior Advisor of Fringe Projects, Miami, FL.

HODAYA LOUIS

Hodaya Louis is a multidisciplinary artist, working with sculpture, drawing, and installation. She is a 2025 Palm Beach Emerging Artist Award recipient, earning a residency at the Norton Museum of Art. Louis exhibited at MAD Arts, Ortega y Gasset Projects, Allouche Gallery in NYC, Warburton Galerie, and the Wausau Museum of Contemporary Art in Wisconsin. She has created public murals and installations in NYC, and her work has been featured in Architectural Digest, HuffPost, Florida Weekly, and on screen in Chicago Med (2024-6) and Egg (2018). Louis holds a BFA in Fashion Design from the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York, and is currently completing an MFA in Studio Arts with a sculpture concentration at Florida Atlantic University.

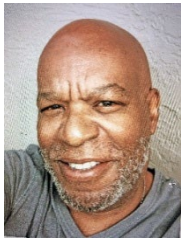

MATTHEW MAZZOTTA

Matthew Mazzotta works between the intersection of art, activism, and urbanism, focusing on the power of the built environment to shape our relationships and experiences. His community-specific projects integrate new forms of civic participation and social engagement into the built environment and reveal how the spaces we travel through and spend our time living within have the potential to become distinct sites for intimate, radical, and meaningful exchanges. Matthew received his BFA degree from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and his Master of Science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Program in Art, Culture, and Technology. He is a TED and Guggenheim Fellow, Fulbright Grantee, a Smithsonian Artist in Research, and a Loeb Fellow at Harvard University.

DOUG McCRAW

Doug McCraw, along with business partners Lutz Hofbauer and Ed Monoz-Toro, founded IMX3, a web-3 platform that provides immersive environments and experiences for art museums and public art projects. Doug and his business partner are currently developing FATVillage, a 900K + square foot mixed-use development with Hines Corporation. It was a warehouse district in downtown Ft Lauderdale that was developed into a community of artists, galleries, studios, and theatres. He founded Art + Light + Space Studios with partners Peter Symons, Leah Brown, and Lutz Hofbauer that does large scale public and corporate art projects. Doug is a graduate of the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, and remains active with board work on the campus.

GARY L. MOORE

Moore's public art commissions have been published through the National Endowment for the Arts: Design in Transportation, American Society of Landscape Architecture, Public Art Network: Year in Review, The Miami Herald, The Atlanta Constitution, New York Times: Back Page Section, Art Papers Atlanta, Art Forum International Magazine and Landscape Architecture Magazine. Currently he has been commissioned by the Public Art Program of Creative Philadelphia for a new upcoming public art installation, Afro-Sankofa In/Flight, which is set to transform the Broad, Germantown and Erie (BGE) intersection in North Philadelphia.

SUSAN NARDULI

Los Angeles-based artist Susan Narduli works at the intersection of art, architecture and technology, creating projects that make visible a new typology of public space. Her award-winning studio explores the boundaries of artistic inquiry, technology and meaning with spaces that are experience driven. At its creative core is a belief in the promise of a built environment in which the individual becomes the catalyst in an evolving language of engagement. Narduli Studio has completed commissions in public art, public space, architecture, virtual environments, interactive experiences, museum installations, light and sound environments and landscapes.

AMANCIO PARADELA

Amancio Paradelo serves as Development Manager of O, Miami. A Miami native and avid tinkerer, Amancio has a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science, with studies in Biology and Anthropology, and a Master of Arts in International Administration from the University of Miami. Amancio joined O, Miami in 2021 as Development Associate, bringing over a decade of development and non-profit experience. Amancio's passion for the arts is reaffirmed by the arts' transformational force in not only the lives of individuals but in the greater community—a subject which is featured heavily in their own artistic practice as a sculptor and maker.

QUIMETTA PERLE

Quimetta Perle is an American artist of Spanish and Jewish descent. She maintains a studio in Brooklyn, NY and Delray Beach, Florida. A feminist artist since the 1970's, her mixed and multimedia work has been exhibited in museums and galleries in solo and group exhibitions throughout the United States. She was awarded an Innovation Fellowship from the Cultural Council of Palm Beach County in 2026 and received a grant from the Brooklyn Arts Council in 2025. Her site-specific installation of 17 textile hangings, Let Me Bring You Something Beautiful, can be viewed at the Mandel Library in West Palm Beach.

RENEE PHILLIPS

Renee Phillips is a process-based artist exploring the transformative potential of color and the materiality of paint from her studio in West Palm Beach, Florida. She received her BFA from the University of Miami and continued her studies at the School of Visual Arts in New York City. Selected solo exhibitions include The Shape of Color at SoHo House West Hollywood and Process and Color at Pen + Brush in New York. A forthcoming solo exhibition will be on view at MTN Space Gallery this November. Phillips recently completed the tallest public art mural in Palm Beach County, Color Field of Northwood, commissioned by Affiliated Development for the City of West Palm Beach's Art in Public Places.

SURALE PHILLIPS

DRMTM Partner, Brand. Research. Surale brings 25 years of experience leading market research, brand research, and engagement for municipalities nationwide. As a principal consultant with WolfBrown and longtime CPG Affiliate Consultant, she has guided over 100 clients through transformative research that shapes authentic community engagement. Her expertise spans qualitative and quantitative methods, GIS mapping, and cultural tourism research. Recent Florida projects include work with the City of West Palm Beach, Cultural Council of Palm Beach County, City of Orlando, Orange County, and Deerfield Beach. Surale's research has supported initiatives funded by the National Endowment for the Arts, Knight Foundation, Wallace Foundation, among other foundations.

ROSARIO PSY

Rosario Tapia Frias is a Bolivian-born multidisciplinary artist based in the United States whose work bridges Andean culture, psychology, and vibrant visual language. Influenced by philosophy, therapeutic art, and behavioral studies, her practice centers on self-worth, identity, and emotional resilience. She has completed public art projects for Pompano Beach and Lauderhill and works nationally as a creative community engagement consultant for the Cultural Planning Group. Her work has been exhibited throughout South Florida and internationally in Peru, Costa Rica, and Bolivia. Rosario affirms art as a living language of the psyche, connecting the seen and unseen. DRMTM Artist, Community Engagement.

CAROLINA PUENTE

Public Art Coordinator for the City of West Palm Beach. With more than fifteen years of experience in the arts, Carolina brings a dynamic portfolio that includes managing an NEA-funded international arts writing institute and curating new media exhibitions at The Katzen Arts Center in Washington, D.C., and at the ArtCenter/South Florida (now Oolite Arts) in Miami. She holds a master's degree in Arts Management from American University, a bachelor's in Business Administration with a concentration in Information Systems from the University of Florida, and a leadership certificate in Creative Placemaking. Carolina believes Public Art transforms public spaces into catalysts for community connection and cultural expression.

PABLO RINCON

Pablo Rincon, Construction Project Manager, Miami-Dade County Department of Cultural Affairs – Art in Public Places division has led several exciting projects in collaboration with various County departments including PortMiami, Aviation, Public Housing, and Jackson Health System. These projects involved public art commissions at the new MSC Cruises Terminal, Virgin Voyages Terminal, Carnival Cruise Line Terminal, and Jackson Memorial Hospital. Pablo has a Master in Acoustics from Universitat Ramon Llull in Barcelona, Spain and a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering from Universidad de Carabobo in Valencia, Venezuela.

PATRICIA ROMEU

Patricia Romeu, Program Chief of the Miami-Dade County Department of Cultural Affairs - Art in Public Places, manages the program's strategic planning, its multi-million-dollar operating budget, and oversees the team of professionals implementing an annual program portfolio of over 100 public art projects, and the ongoing assessment and conservation needs of the Miami-Dade County Public Art Collection. Since 2006, Patricia has spearheaded the completion of over 125 diverse and complex artists' commissions, many of which are fully integrated with the architecture of new County and municipal facilities. Through her in-depth project management and relationship building skills, Patricia developed a turnkey business model that has allowed the County's public art program to thrive and to successfully engage with high caliber visual artists.

ELAYNA TOBY SINGER

As Administrator of Palm Beach County's Art in Public Places program Elayna Toby Singer collaborates with artists, designers, public sector leaders and community stakeholders to transform public spaces into Art Places, improving quality of life for residents and visitors. Elayna serves on the Florida Association of Public Art Professionals Board and is Chair of the Design and Planning Community for American Public Gardens Association. She previously served on the Americans for the Arts Public Advisory Council, the Urban Land Institute Creative Placemaking Group. Also, a social practice artist, Elayna partners with arts, environmental, health, and heritage organizations to co-create participatory temporary communiTree kinetic public art installations and nature arts programs that promote healthier people and places.

GABRIELLE SMITH

Gabrielle is a passionate urban planner dedicated to crafting vibrant communities that reflect the unique spirit of their residents and businesses. Believing that entertainment and creativity are essential to thriving neighborhoods, she designs spaces that enhance quality of life, economic prosperity, and overall well-being. With a Bachelor of Science in City and Regional Planning from The Ohio State University and minors in architecture, theater, and pop culture, Gabrielle brings a unique perspective to her work. Her ability to blend technical expertise with creative vision results in clear, compelling plans communicated through 3D models, GIS maps, and visually striking graphics.

LAURA TANNER

Laura Tanner's creative practice includes interdisciplinary forms of storytelling to reflect how regional foodways and gathering traditions inform collective identity. She has exhibited nationally and internationally, including exhibitions at the Mint Museum, Springfield Art Museum, and the Weatherspoon Art Museum. Her work has been supported through numerous grants, awards, and fellowships, including the South Florida Cultural Consortium Award and fellowships from the Hambidge Center for the Creative Arts and Sciences and the Tulane ByWater Institute. Recent public art commissions include the Osvaldo N. Soto Miami-Dade County Justice Center and Wildflower Park Centennial Legacy Mosaics in Boca Raton, FL. Tanner currently lives in Boca Raton, FL, where she is an Associate Professor at Florida Atlantic University.

ERWIN TIMMERS

Erwin Timmers is Co-founder and Director of the Washington Glass School and is one of the Washington DC area's leading 'eco-artists'. Recycling, waste and how they relate to society are recurring themes in his work. His approach to art is multi-faceted, incorporating metalwork, innovative lighting and glass design. His sculptural artwork has been on display in an increasing number of regional and national galleries. He has received multiple public art commissions from amongst others: EPA, Library of Congress, Safeway, and Palm Beach County. Montgomery County, Maryland, honored Erwin Timmers as the county's "Outstanding Artist" in 2018

VERONICA VERA

I am a creative professional with a proven record of leadership and team building to develop and implement strategic operational goals. Originally from California and raised in Venezuela, my experience living across diverse cultures allows me to collaborate effectively with individuals from various backgrounds. I offer extensive experience as an Architect specializing in high-end design, construction documentation, and project management. I am fully proficient in all facets of the design process, including Schematic Design, Design Development, Construction Documents, and Construction Administration. With experience in corporate environments, quality assurance, and direct consumer services, I have developed strong communication, interpersonal, and organizational skills. My greatest asset is my ability to utilize innovative problem-solving to achieve customer-oriented design goals.

MARY DAVIS WALLACE

Where Art Meets Community

When Artists are part of Palm Beach County's construction projects, public spaces, buildings and streetscapes are enriched for residents and visitors. Inspired by The Palm Beaches' natural beauty and multi-faceted communities, the County's "Public Art Places" reveal contemporary and historical stories to create a distinct sense of place.

Discover "Public Art Places" throughout The Palm Beaches in municipal and unincorporated areas, including West Palm Beach, Lake Worth, Palm Beach Gardens, Boynton Beach, Delray Beach, Boca Raton, South Bay, Belle Glade, Loxahatchee, and more.

Creativity Takes Flight

Providing an artful welcome to The Palm Beaches, changing exhibitions and art on permanent display enhance the travel experience for millions of travelers every year at Palm Beach International Airport.

The Art Gallery's current exhibition "Rooted Connection" explores the deep ties between people, the land and the living world around us. This collection of works sparks contemplation on the relationships that nurture our sense of belonging and place.

The Art of Making Place

"The Art of Making Place" offers a behind the scenes virtual tour of "Public Art Places" integrated into the Palm Beach County Convention Center, Four Points Office Building, Mounts Botanical Garden, Water Utilities Office, Belle Glade Branch Library, CACTI Ballpark, and Centennial Park.

ART IN PUBLIC PLACES (AIPP) PROGRAM

Public art helps shape the identity of Palm Beach Gardens. The City has a dedicated Art in Public Places Advisory Board, supported by the City Council and staff. Under this program, new nonresidential developments over $1M must contribute 1% of construction costs to public art, either through on-site artwork or by contributing the equivalent amount to the City's Art Impact Fund. This commitment creates a vibrant, culturally rich community. Learn more about this initiative, explore our AIPP Gallery and read the stories behind several pieces at www.pbgfl.gov/aipp.

FEATURED ARTIST INTERVIEWS

Discover the stories behind Palm Beach Gardens' public sculptures! Recently, the City of Palm Beach Gardens began a video series to provide a closer look at the creators and their work. Watch them now on the City's YouTube channel: www.youtube.com/citypbg.

GARDENSART EXHIBITS

Founded in 1989, GardensArt features rotating exhibits at various City facilities, showcasing high-quality work by locally and nationally recognized artists. The program also offers workshops and performances, with all exhibits free and open to the public. Learn more at www.pbgfl.gov/gardensart.

ANNUAL ARTIGRAS FINE ARTS FESTIVAL

The City of Palm Beach Gardens hosts the annual ArtiGras Fine Arts Festival, a recognized top-70 national event featuring over 200 juried artists, a Youth Art Competition, ArtiKids Zone, live entertainment and community support through local charities and volunteers.
