Donnie,

I agree most E-bikes should be off the sidewalks. The ones that are the lowest power can, and should be allowed on Sidewalks where bicycles are allowed. As a driver the biggest problem I have with the e-bikes is the cutting in and out of traffic, ignoring red lights and stop signs. I'd like to see some hefty fines put on the ones who do that. It's not all, but enough of them. Even worse are the idiots on the stand-up Raxor/Scooters that are electric powered. They believe they're indestructible and will zip in front of cars without looking. How I haven't hit one yet I don't know. It's definitely a problem and I wish you luck figuring out the best way to handle it.
